It is a common mistake to think that the only way to improve the quality of education is to increase the amount of time students spend in the classroom. While this may seem like a logical approach, research has shown that it is not necessarily the most effective. Instead, focusing on the quality of instruction and the learning environment can lead to more significant improvements in student outcomes.

Please acknowledge receipt and acceptance of this notice by signing below either in the space provided below, keep one (1) copy and return the other to the above Training and Research Technical Center.
